

Local
Agents
Serving
Main Street
AmericaSM

Now that PIA National has introduced the Data Protective Services (DPS) program to agents, you may be asking yourself:

Does my state have security breach legislation in place?

- Below is a quick list of those states that do and do not have such legislation in place.
Please note: This list is subject to change and includes references to general security breach legislation applying to most business entities, regardless of industry. Each state may have additional requirements that apply to insurance entities doing business in the state.
- DPS has a number of articles & resources available on their website which is accessible via link from PIA National's website at <http://www.pianet.com/DataProtectiveServices>

Here is a direct link to one such resource, from the National Conference of State Legislatures, which includes links to each state's security breach notification laws:

<http://www.ncsl.org/IssuesResearch/TelecommunicationsInformationTechnology/SecurityBreachNotificationLaws/tabid/13489/Default.aspx>

States without Security Breach Legislation:

Alabama
Kentucky
Mississippi (new legislation, 2010 H.B. 583, becomes effective July 1, 2011)
New Mexico
South Dakota

States with Security Breach Legislation:

(Agents in these states should consider signing up for DPS if they use PCs.)

Alaska	Illinois	Montana	Rhode Island
Arizona	Indiana	Nebraska	South Carolina
Arkansas	Iowa	Nevada	Tennessee
California	Kansas	New Hampshire	Texas
Colorado	Louisiana	New Jersey	Utah
Connecticut	Maine	New York	Vermont
Delaware	Maryland	North Carolina	Virginia
District of Columbia	Massachusetts	North Dakota	Washington
Florida	Michigan	Ohio	West Virginia
Georgia	Minnesota	Oklahoma	Wisconsin
Hawaii	Missouri	Oregon	Wyoming
Idaho	Mississippi (effective July 1, 2011)	Pennsylvania

List current as of 6/9/10